500 CATTLEMEN ARE EXPECTED IN CITY NEXT WEEK

Barbecue And Ball To Be Principal Events On Entertainment Program Of Arizona Cattlemen's Assn.

With 500 delegates from Arizona and the southwest attending, the annual convention of the Arizona Cattlemen's association will open in Phoenix next Tuesday for a three days' session. The local chamber of commerce already is completing arrangements to make the convention the biggest and best ever held in this city.

One of the convention's biggest problems, and one which the chamber is working on, is that of taking care of the half a thousand guests which Phoenix will have to house and entertain next week. Winter accommodations here always are more or less scarce, and the city probably will be hard put to take proper care of the visiting cattlemen. To insure that all the visitors may be comfortably located during the convention, the chamber of commerce is appealing to the citizens of Phoenix to throw open their homes to the delegates.

A special "room bureau" has been opened at the chamber's headquarters, and every resident who can possibly provide a room or two for some of the visitors is asked to call up the "room bureau," telephone 1294, and notify the committee in charge of taking care of Phoenix guests. The chamber also has prepared a general letter appealing for everybody to help take care of the visitors. Eight hundred copies of the letter are to be mailed to local citizens.

Barbecue Big Event

One of the big events of the convention, from a social angle, will be a gigantic barbecue, which, according to the plans of the chamber of commerce committee on arrangements, will be a record breaker in the history of Arizona. Sheriff John Montgomery has been appointed chairman of the barbecue committee, and with him will be associated Charles Pishon, a member of the state fair commission, and Joe McIner. Other persons, well qualified by experience to serve on the committee, will be appointed to help make the affair a big success. Plans for the event will be completed and announced in the near future. The barbecue date has been set for shortly after noon, next Wednesday.

Among the other features planned for the entertainment of the cattlemen is a dance. This will be one of the most interesting items on the program, and will probably be held in Arcadia hall.

A committee of women has been appointed to arrange the details, and to organize other committees to receive the guests and to see that every delegate attending the convention has an enjoyable time.

Committee Named

Mrs. Harry Kay is chairman of the committee to complete all arrangements for the dance, the exact date of which has not been announced. Others on the committee are Mrs. P. K. Lewis, Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Sima Ely, Jr. Other workers and committees are now being selected.

Although the first session of the convention will not be held until Tuesday, a large proportion of the delegates are expected to arrive in Phoenix Monday. In addition to making the appeal for rooms for the visitors, the chamber of commerce requests that citizens with motor cars be at the Hotel Adams at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to take the delegates on a short ride about the valley. Motorists also are asked to be at the hotel at noon Wednesday to take the visiting cattlemen to the scene of the barbecue. Motor car owners who can make the trip, or even one of them, should get in touch with the committee on arrangements, at the Phoenix chamber of commerce.

PREDATORY VARMINTS PREYING ON POULTRY

Perhaps no one, more than the small rancher, who is trying to raise some poultry, realizes the amount of damage done by wolves, coyotes, and other predatory animals.

N. L. Harris, who has been working among the poultrymen of the state for the past year, has found certain localities where it was next to impossible to raise chickens and turkeys on account of the ravages of these pests.

It is difficult to determine the amount of damage done but from facts gathered in the past year's work it is estimated that no less than 2,000 turkeys with a value of $2 per head have been killed. Probably not less than 10 times this number of other kinds of poultry have been destroyed.

Wolves and coyotes are getting so cunning that only the most experienced hunters and trappers are able to get them. With a state so favorable to the breeding of these animals, the only method of saving the loss inflicted on the poultry interests is to exterminate them. Recently considerable help has been received from the bureau of biological survey, under the direction of M. E. Musgrave.

Plans are now being made to work in Navajo county where probably the greatest amount of damage is being done.

MANY LAST NIGHT INSPECT THE NEW KISSEL KAR MODEL

Daring, yet conservative, distinguished in its simplicity of lines, radiating an air of class, but without ironicalness, the new Silver Special Kissel Kar models were presented to the Phoenix public last night by the George H. Reuben company.

A stream of Phoenix citizens flowed through the Reuben showrooms all last evening to inspect the cars at their first showing, and if the general expressions of the visitors last night prove a criterion, the new models are going to be extremely popular.

Apparently nothing has been overlooked to add to their appearance, comfort and convenience. A four-passenger model in khaki composed the exhibit last night.

Aluminum instrument board, aluminum footboards, front seats with rolling adjustment, exposed metal nickeled, wire wheels, top ventilators for the motor and the front seat compartments, bumpers front and rear as standard equipment, shock absorbers all around, deep and comfortable upholstery—are features of this attractive car.

"I feel that in this car I have the culmination of the years of work that I have spent in building up this business," said Mr. Reuben last night. "The bodies are the creation of R. L. Silver of New York, the largest distributor of cars in America, whose belief in the high qualities of the Kissel led him to induce the factory to allow him to design his own bodies. And here they are. One look, for those who appreciate Kissel quality, when they see these beautiful models, simply sets them by the ears in their desire to possess one. We sold the Belgian blue sport model, as soon as it appeared on the floor, to Mr. E. A. Shelly, a well known cotton man, and we anticipate a tremendous demand."

MADISON WOMAN'S CLUB TO GIVE SOCIAL

An evening's entertainment, that will furnish a genuine old-fashioned good time to all attending, will be held by the Madison Woman's club at the Madison school, Friday, February 7, at 7:30 p. m.

Included in the evening's program will be a spelling bee, in which all will be invited to take part; a pie and coffee social and an auction sale of a car donated for that purpose by R. D. Schultz, of the Madison district. All receipts will be used to complete payment on the $200 Liberty bond the club recently pledged itself to pay for.

HOUSES OFFER ON GREENING TO UTAH VISITORS

But Governor Names Committee Of Reception To Meet Land Traders From Northern Neighbor Today

On two points yesterday the houses of the legislature were not agreed, though neither was officially informed as to how the other felt about it. The one matter in which there is a lack of co-operation is in the preparation for the reception of the Utah delegation which is coming here to negotiate for the "Arizona Strip."

The senate had adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, of a committee to meet the Utah committee. The governor yesterday afternoon sent in the names of Speaker Peterson, C. W. Herndon and Land Commissioner Mosier.

Just before that, the speaker, under a resolution adopted by the house the afternoon before, appointed a committee composed of Mr. Bowman, Judge Phillips and Mr. Richards.

The other point from which the two houses diverged was art, the silent drama. The house had adjourned in a body to witness the run of the cinema of the Hopi snake dance, and when it returned in the afternoon it was so appreciative that it voted thanks to the management for the entertainment.

Saw Hopvine Wiggle

The senate had not attended the show in a body, but many of the members had gone grudgingly, and among them was Senator Young of Gila who embodied his impressions in "Senate Joint Memorial No. 23" directed to Hon. Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, reciting that on this day he and his colleagues had witnessed the "hopvine wiggle dance." Continued the memorial:

"Now therefore be it
"Resolved by the senate of the state of Arizona, the house discouraging, that the ideas of the Arizona play are hardly appreciated and every effort should be made to keep them inviolate."

Mr. Claridge moved the reference of the memorial to the chief of the Hopis. President Johns overruled the motion and consigned the memorial to the waste paper basket.

This episode has not been without beneficial results as few things in this world are. The senate has learned Arizona nomenclature. When the subject was first brought up, on the floor of the house, the speaker of the house the senators each had his own way of pronouncing the name of the tribe. Some called it "Hoppy," and others, "Hoe Pie." At the time of the disposition of the memorial, all within the short space of two days, the senate had been brought together on a uniform and correct pronunciation Hopi, "o" as in "old" and "i" as in "in," accent on the penultimate.

Extends Subsidy Condition

Among the matters taken up in the morning session of the senate was the bill providing a subsidy of $10,000 for the discoverer of oil in Arizona. In the original draft of the bill it was provided that the subsidy should produce 50 barrels daily. The committee favorably recommended the bill with an amendment extending the time of the 50-barrel flow over a continuous period of 30 days, probably in the fear that an aspirant for the subsidy could afford to dump enough crude oil into a hole to occupy several days in the taking it out.

In the afternoon the senate assayed the Parr bill prohibiting the display of the red flag or the black flag or other insignia symbolical of any idea of government opposed to that of the United States. Only one vote was cast against it, that of Mr. Wilkinson. Mr. Winsor complimented him upon his honesty and courage and said that he, too, would vote against it, but for the apprehension that at some time his action might be interpreted. He did not believe that repressive legislation would cure evils and conditions of which they were only symptoms. The repression of those who display black and red flags would only drive them to clandestine meetings and means of promulgating their notions of governments.

In the morning session the senate received a communication from the Arizona Cattle Growers' Association inviting it to attend the annual convention of the association in this city February 11-13, on the opening day of which Governor Campbell will deliver an address. A similar invitation was directed to the house.

Rush of Bills

The house had adjourned over the morning session for the snake dance picture show, which must have had an inspiring effect, for there was never in the session such an avalanche of bills as rushed down on the clerk's desk in the afternoon.

Among them was one somewhat out of the ordinary and a good way out of the jurisdiction of the legislature. It was a house resolution directed to the commissioners plenipotentiary of the peace conference to make the world completely safe for democracy by urging that the principle of the self-determination of peoples be applied to Ireland and that it be given an independent government. The resolution was adopted with a very few dissenting voices.

A house joint resolution by Mrs. Westover was adopted under a series of suspensions of the rules and was sent to the senate where similar action was taken upon it. The resolution approves the plan of Secretary of the Interior P. K. Lane for establishing a land policy under the soldier settlement act. There is now pending, related to the resolution, a bill appropriating $100,000,000 to carry out the purposes of the act which are to reclaim 215,000,000 acres of arid and swamp lands on which 100,000 men may be established on 55,000 farms, under a refunding plan by which the settlers will be allowed 40 years in which to repay the government. The resolution urges the congress to pass the bill promptly.

Other New Bills

House bill 65, by Mr. Phillips, amending the law creating "no fence" districts. This is similar to the Wilkinson bill in the senate and proposes districts of much smaller area than those formed under the existing law.

House bill 66, by Mr. Waters, amends the statutes relating to "judgments." It is a bill proposed by the American Federation of Labor to be introduced into the legislature of every state. It had its origin in the Mooney case and provides that the supreme court, when it appears that in the case of a person convicted of murder in any degree, may order a new trial when it transpires that evidence against him, if of a material character, was perjured.

House bill 67, by the appropriations committee, for the relief of the McNeill company for supplies furnished the state departments for the years 1915, 1916 and 1917, and for which for various reasons payment had not been made. But the first reason enumerated must have been regarded as sufficient and all the rest super-erogatory—a lack of funds.

House bill 68, by Mr. Little, amending the law regulating the practice of dentistry by directing the secretary of state to issue a certificate to any one presenting a certificate or diploma from another state where the requirements are similar to those of Arizona, of the applicant has been engaged in practice for five years.

House bill 69, by Mr. Lines, providing that in cases of epidemics when the school of any district has been closed for a period, so that the expense of conducting has been lessened, the board of trustees may base estimates for the needs of the school for the next year on the expenses of the school for the preceding year.

House bill 70, by Mr. Delbridge, amending the statute regulating to mine inspector and operations in mines by enforcing additional precautions against accidents.

House bill 71, by the judiciary committee, changing the law with reference to accounts by administrators and executors of estates.

House bill 72, by Mr. Burk, relating to surveys of public lands authorized by congress.

House bill 73, by the judiciary committee, regulatory of the practice of law.

House bill 74, by Mr. Waters, prescribing regulations for the protection of laborers and workmen in certain dangerous occupations. A new familiar provision of the bill is that those who cannot speak and understand the English language shall not be employed in such occupations.

House bill 75, by the committee on judiciary, providing that those who have completed the law course of the University of Arizona may be admitted to the practice of law.

The committee on judiciary not only unfavorably reported the bill of Mrs. O'Neill fixing the minimum ages for marriage, raising the age of consent to 18 years, but recommended its indefinite postponement. But it is probable that more will be heard of the measure in the committee of the whole in a day or two.

Both houses were so well along with their work that there was nothing for the committee of the house to do, and almost nothing in the senate under that order.
